THE BRAVE AT HOME.

BY T. BUCHANAN READ

I.

The maid who binds her warrior's sash,
With smile that well her pain dissembles,
The while beneath her drooping lash
One starry tear-drop hangs and trembles,
Though Heaven alone records the tear,
And Fame shall never know her story,
Her heart has shed a drop as dear
As ever dewed the field of glory.

II.

The wife who girds her husband's sword,
'Mid little ones who weep or wonder,
And bravely speaks the cheering word,
Although her heart be rent asunder—
Doomed nightly in her dreams to hear
The bolts of war around him rattle—
Hath shed as sacred blood as e'er
Was poured upon the field of battle!

III.

The mother who conceals her grief,
While to her breast her son she presses,
Then breathes a few brave words and brief,
Kissing the patriot brow she blesses,
With no one but her secret God,
To know the pain that weighs upon her,
Sheds holy blood as e'er the sod
Received on Freedom's field of honor!

S. DE. KAY'S ACCOUNT OF THE BATTLE.

The following is the account given by S. De Kay, the Louisville Courier's correspondent, of the battle of the Manassas. It will be observed that he was under the impression that Gen. Patterson's division had reached the field of battle. In a letter written two or three days earlier than this, he says Gen. Johnston's army was ordered to Manassas, because Gen. Patterson had marched with his column to help M'Dowell. The correspondent seems to have been confused by the rumors of the camp. The Southern general officers unquestionably knew how the case stood.—The Courier's correspondent speaks of the battle as having been nearly lost by the South at one time; and he admits that the slaughter in the Southern ranks was terrible.

It was not the good fortune of your correspondent to be in the engagement, that portion of General Johnston's army to which the Kentucky battallion is attached having been detained at Piedmont by a railroad accident. We reached the field of battle just as the victory had been gained, and only had the mingled satisfaction and sorrow of joining in the huzzas and uniting in the sad lamentations. The battle opened on Sunday morning about five o'clock, near Bull Run, some four miles from Manassas Junction, the Federals advancing with an immense column fifty-four thousand strong, under Gen. M'Dowell. The engagement was not general, the artillery only playing at intervals until seven o'clock, when the firing of cannon and musketry became very hot, and the action was fairly opened.

DON'T LIKE YANKEE TRICKS.

Here an unfortunate mistake for a time threw our line into confusion. The Yankees, infamous in their tricks of war as well as trade, advanced a large column headed by the Confederate Flag, and when within forty yards opened a deadly fire upon the Fourth Alabama Regiment.—This caused a retreat, which the South Carolinians observing, they opened upon the Alabamians, thinking them enemies, and nearly decimated their ranks. About the same time General Beauregard heard heavy firing several miles to the right, and immediately went with our main body to the scene of the supposed conflict. But this was another decoy. The Yankees had sent a large quantity of ordnance, with only men sufficient to man the guns, so as to attract the attention of our forces from the main point of attack. Quickly discovering the ruse, Beauregard double quicked his troops to the former battle field, from which we had been driven back some two miles. Now came the tug of war.

THE FORTUNES OF THE DAY AGAINST US.

The fortunes of the day were evidently against us. Some of our best officers had been slain, and the flower of our army lay strewn upon the field, ghastly in death or gaping with wounds. The cannonading at noon is described as terrific. It was an incessant roar, for more than two hours—the havoc and devastation at this time being fearful. McDowell, with the aid of Patterson's division of 20,000, had very nearly outflanked us, and were just in the act of possessing themselves of the railway to Richmond. Then all would have been lost. But most opportunely—I may say Providentially—at this jucture, Gen. Johnston, with the remnant of his division re-appeared and made one other desperate struggle to obtain the vantage ground. Elsey's brigade of Marylanders and Virginians led the charge, and right manfully did they execute the work.—Gen. Johnston himself led the advance, and wild with delirium his ten thousand advanced in hot haste upon three times their number. Twice was Sherman's battery, that all day long had proven so destructive, charged and taken, and our men driven back. The third time, Virginians, Carolinians, Mississippians and Louisianians, captured the great guns, and maintained their position.

JEFF. DAVIS APPEARS ON THE FIELD.

About the pieces the dead and wounded lay five deep, so protracted and deadly had been the struggle. Now hope again dawned upon us, and just as the tide seemed turning in our favor, another good omen illuminated the fortunes of the day that at times seemed so ill-starred. Riding in a half column along our lines was a single horseman with hat in hand, waving to the men, and speaking brief words of encouragement. By intuition all knew that this was President Davis, and such a shout as made the welkin ring arose—a shout of joy and defiance. The President had just arrived by special train from Richmond, and Providence appeared to be with us again. The contest was no longer doubtful. As I heard one of our officers say, "our men could have whipped legions of devils."

The word "Onward!" was given—Davis, bareheaded, in the van. No more lingering or dallying. It was a grand and sublime onset of a few determined sons of liberty against the legions of despotism. The lines of the enemy were broken, their columns put to flight, and until after dark the pursuit was continued. The rout was complete. Off scampered the Yankees, throwing away guns, knapsacks, clothing, and everything that could retard their progress. Thus was the day won, and the long bright Sabbath closed, a lovely full moon looking down calmly and peacefully upon the bloodiest field that the Continent of America ever witnessed.

DEEP SORROW AT THE LOSS.

Our loss is fully two thousand killed and wounded. Among the killed are Gen. Bee, of South Carolina, Gen. E. K. Smith, Gen. Bartow, of Georgia, Colonel Moore and the Alabama field officers, Col. Fisher, and the North Carolina field officers, Adjutant Branch of Georgia, and a host of other leading men. Thomas G. Duncan, of Nelson county, Ky., was in the fight, and was shot through the left shoulder. His wound is not dangerous. Col. Barbour, of Louisville, Capt. Menifee and Shelby Coffee, of Kentucky, were in the hottest of the fight. This is a sad day. The rain is pouring in torrents.—The killed and wounded are being brought in by hundreds, and a gloom pervades all hearts, that even the sense of our great victory cannot relieve.

AN AFFECTING INCIDENT.—Two gentlemen named Buck, one of whom lives in Massachusetts, the other in New York, having sons in the South, and hearing that a young man of their name had been taken prisoner, came on to Washington, and obtained permits to visit the jail.—Curiously enough, they met at the door, and entered together. The Massachusetts man instantly recognized his son a prisoner, and fell insensible at his feet.—After he had recovered from the shock, the son told him he was teaching school in Virginia, and, when the war broke out, was impressed into the Rebel service, at the point of the bayonet, and would gladly expiate his involuntary treason by serving as a private in the National Army. Senator Wilson, who is interested in the case, will doubtless take measures for the release of this victim of Southern terrorism.

A CAPTURE AND AN INCIDENT.—A curious incident occurred in connection with the capture of the Secession prize Enchantress. As the gun boat Albatross approached her, she "fought shy," and when hailed replied that she was "from Newburyport, bound for Santa Cruz." At this moment the negro cook appeared on the gunwale, crying out as he leaped into the sea with uplifted hands: "For God's sake, save me, Captain! she's a secesher, bound to Charleston!" A boat was immediately lowered to save the negro and board the brig. On examining her papers it was found that her reply to the hail was true, but she was a prize to the "Jeff Davis," and had a prize crew on board. Her cargo is first-class assorted goods, suitable for the Union army.

A DEFENCE OF RED TAPE.

A Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser comes to the rescue of "red tape," in the following cogent terms:

My experience and observation in camp life has converted me to a belief in "red tape."

I see that red tape is nothing more or less than a strict enforcement of rules, made by honest and wise officers, on sound principles of action.

I see that red tape holds an army from going to pieces, lost in a pathless forest of new particulars.

I see that red tape safely guides each man through a labyrinth.

I see that red tape ties the hands of uncounted numbers who might be tempted to defraud.

I see that red tape checks any who might feel inclined to exact just a little more than is right.

I see that red tape holds back an army from sinking into unexplored depths of corruption.

Red tape takes a great deal of time, but it is time worth less than the order it ensures, or the money it saves.

Red tape is annoying to the individual, but annoyance is more easily endured than disorder or disgrace.

A volunteer who has always managed his own business at home successfully, rapidly and independently, finds it hard to be brought up short at every turn by a little piece of red tape. It is hard.—He grumbles dreadfully, if, indeed, he does not indulge in more unseemly vituperation. I wish he would picture to himself an Administration without red tape. I think he would afterwards endure his little piece of the slandered article with patience, and even with respect and approval.

It was hard for me to consume a day in getting some hay and oats for "Banner." I saw an abundance of hay, but it was all safely tied up in red tape. I discerned uncounted bags of oats, but each bag was tied with red tape, and enclosed with a cordon of red tape. But when I learned by experience that the using up of a day was partly from my own ignorance—when I saw that the forms through which I was forced to go, and the duplicate papers I was obliged to make out, the orders I must obtain, and the receipts I must give, were each and all necessary protections to hundreds of thousands of dollars invested by Uncle Sam in provision for thousands of horses, I cheerfully submitted to the red tape, and I have been a happier, a better and wiser man in consequence.

A Revelation from the South.

By the merest accident, says the New Orleans Delta of July 25th, Newport News was prevented from being taken by General Magruder, a few weeks since.—A gentleman who arrived here from Virginia on Monday, and who, as an amateur soldier, while on a visit to the Yorktown Peninsula, threw himself into the command of Col. Dreux, who was then living, and had secured the regard and confidence of Gen. Magruder, by his daring, his enterprise and his prudence, gives us the following particulars of the plan and its results:

Late in the evening the gallant Dreux was summoned to the presence of the General, and ordered to have his battalion ready to march at eleven o'clock. His command was under arms at the appointed minute, and he found, beside him, other corps swelling the column to two thousand men. It was a dark, dreary night, heavy rain falling, and was chosen as singularly favorable to the expedition. The march of many miles was made without a murmur, the men trudging over a miry road, drenched with rain. As day was about to dawn, the General found himself before the formidable works of the enemy. All his anticipations were realized thus far, and his whole plan was successful. He had not met a single picket to alarm the garrison. He was within musket-shot of the foe, and that, too, at the very hour when the soldiers slumbers are the heaviest. Everything boded a splendid success. The column was divided into two divisions to attack the stronghold on both flanks. General Magruder took command of one division, and the other was assigned to Col. Dreux. The signal for assault was about to be given, when one of the guides accidentally dropped his gun, the charge of which exploded and alarmed the enemy. The long roll was immediately beat inside. With the force the General had, it would have been madness to make the attack upon a prepared enemy. The fort could only have been taken by surprise. Foiled in that, our troops were re-united, and, being withdrawn a short distance, battle was offered in the open field. Although the enemy was twice or thrice as strong as our little army, the challenge was declined, and the General retraced his steps—his well devised scheme frustrated, as has been the case with many an enterprising and gifted soldier, by an untoward trifle.

A Literal 'Marriage of Convenience.'

The Observateur Belge tells the following story, which, if not new, is still old enough to bear reviving, especially at a season when office-seekers are so put to their mettle that no hint of methods can be thrown away:

"The grandfather of the present King of Holland one day received a visit from a young man who requested to be appointed as successor to a notary deceased on the previous day. The King said: "The notary has left nothing for his widow, with the exception of some half dozen children to bring up; the person who succeeds to the office must do something for her. There was a candidate here some minutes before you came, who offered her a pension of four hundred francs a year, which is very little.' 'I will give her four hundred florins sire.' 'Well, we shall see. Come again in a week.' The young man was punctual to his appointment. 'It appears,' said the King, 'that the connection is a good one; your competior now offers to give the widow five hundred florins a year.' 'Well, sire, I will give six hundred florins.' 'Come again in a week; he who makes the most liberal offer shall have the office.' At the third audience the other competitor had advanced to eight hundred florins, but our young man declared that such generosity would be ruinous, and that he could not offer so much. 'I venture, however, to ask your majesty to grant me the favor of suspending your decision for a week longer.'

"The delay was granted; but when the young man came for the fourth time, His Majesty could not help saying, with some impatience: 'It is useless, sir, to say anything more. Your rival has not hesitated to offer a pension of a thousand florins; will you do as much for the widow?' 'I beg your pardon, sire, I will do more; I am about to marry her. Here is her written consent.' King William was so much diverted with this place-hunting expedient that he determined the Queen should immediately share his amusement, and the hero of the adventure accordingly had the honor of relating all the particulars to their Majesties, who laughed most heartily at the story. The model place-hunter afterwards became an exceedingly successful man in his business."

EXHAUSTION OF TALK:—How long the lamp of conversation holds out to burn between two persons only, is curiously set down in the following passage from Count Gonfallioner's account of his imprisonment:

"Fifteen years I existed in a dungeon ten feet square. During six years I had a companion; during nine years I was alone. I never could rightly distinguish the face of him who shared my captivity in the eternal twilight of our cell. The first year we talked incessantly together; we related our past lives, our joys forever gone, over and over again. The next year we communicated to each other our thoughts and ideas on all subjects. The third year we had no ideas to communicate; we were beginning to lose the power of reflection. The fourth, at the interval of a month or so, we would open our lips to ask each other if it were possible that the world went on as gay and bustling as when we formed a portion of mankind.—The fifth we were silent. The sixth he was taken away, I never knew where, to execution or liberty. But I was glad when he was gone; even solitude was better than that pale, vacant face. One day (it must have been a year or two after my companion left me) the dungeon door was opened, whence proceeding I knew not; the following words were uttered:—"By order of his Imperial Majesty I intimate to you that your wife died a year ago." Then the door was shut, and I heard no more; they had but flung this great agony upon me and left me alone with it."

ABERNETHY AND HIS MATCH.—A lady on one occasion entered his consulting room, and put before him an injured finger, without saying a word. In silence Abernethy dressed the wound, when instantly and silently the lady put the usual fee on the table, and retired. In a few days she called again, and offered the finger for inspection. "Better?" asked the surgeon. "Better!" answered the lady, speaking for the first time. Not another word followed during the rest of the interview. Similar visits were made, at the last of which the patient held her finger perfectly healed. "Well?" was Abernethy's monosylabic inquiry. "Well!" was the lady's answer. "Upon my soul, madam," exclaimed the surgeon, "you are the most rational woman I ever met with!"

☞ The following is supposed to describe the "Dixie" whose praise is growing universal:

Oh is not this a happy land—
With wine upon the lees?
Where pot-pies smoke in six quart pans,
And dumplings grow on trees?
Where Nature's lessons may be read,
In every babbling brook?
Where bumble-bees don't sting a chap,
And muley cows don't hook?

VERY FIGURATIVE.

Two young students, while taking a walk one evening, got into a dispute concerning the solution of an arithmetical problem. The dispute grew warm and our students were on the point of settling the question with their fists, when they arrived at a miserable little shanty; so, thinking that "wisdom is often found beneath tatters," the students entered at the broken gate, which swung independently on one hinge, and, accosting a boy "all tattered and torn," who was feeding a dirty pig before the gate, one of them asked:

"I say, my boy, can your father cypher?"

"Cypher!—what's that?" asked the boy, with a foolish stare.

"Cyphering means figuring; can your father figure?"

"I guess so; he figgered wonst."

Upon this the young men entered the shanty, where they found a dirty, ragged old codger, engaged in potating from a little black jug, and accosted him with—

"Good morning, sir, we understand you're smart at figuring, and we want you to solve a little problem for us, if you will be so kind."

"Who the devil said I could figger—I'd like to know?"

"Your son told us you could figure," said the students.

"Here, Bill, you lying, good-for-nothing whelp—did you tell these gentlemen that I could figger?"

"Yes dad," said Bill, making his appearance, "you know you figgered wonst."

"When and where did I figger wonst, you lying rascal?"

"Don't you remember, about six months ago, you figgered in the perleece court, for stealing neighbor Pupkins' onions?"—[Exit Bill, followed by the black jug.]

FAMILY TROUBLES.—Was ever there a family without its troubles? Adam and Eve had their troubles in Eden: and all families have had their troubles. Every family has a skeleton behind the door; every person a thorn in his side. It is said that misery loves company, so take courage hapless man, wearied woman.—You are in the majority. "Man is born to trouble as the sparks fly upward." A useless family would yours be if it knew no trouble. Trouble is our great teacher. It nerves us with the strength; it tempers our mettle; it develops our self-control; it quickens our inventive powers. Troubles are to us what the winds are to the oak, what labor is to muscle, what study is to the mind. Life is a school and trouble is one of the great lessons. Troubles are not to be courted, but when they come we must get over them the best way we can, arouse. Take courage, therefore, troubled one. Not in vain are your trials. They make you brave, strong, and, it is to be hoped, better. Be not cast down; cheer up; cast aside your weeds and woes.—Look the world in the face; do your duty take every trouble by the horns, overcome it with the courage of a true soldier in lifes great battle, and stoutly contend for the victory of will and wisdom.

MILITARY PRINTERS HAVING THEIR JOKE.—A delegation of printers from the Twentieth Ohio Regiment, stationed at Fairman, Virginia, have taken possession of the True Virginian printing-office, in that town. Their first leading article was an invitation to Drinkard, the late editor, to come back—thus:

"Men with military trappings now occupy the identical chair in which your peaceful body once sat. They write Union articles with your "secesh" pen; they drink Union whiskey out of your old bottle, Drinkard; and the devil wears your coat; and the pike you kept as a relic of John Brown, at Harper's Ferry, the boys now use to cut your rules, and the paper and ink you prepared for secession purposes are now used to print army blanks upon. O, Drinkard! you ought to be here. How can you stay away? Your types are set up for Union articles; your press prints them. And more than this, the Stars and Stripes float from your window; and we all know, from the files left in your sanctum, that this doesn't suit you. Come back, then, and take possession. Bring all your friends—Henry A. Wise, John Letcher, and the rest—with you."

Rights---The Difference.

The right to go where one chooses, to speak, think and act as one pleases, provided it is so done as not to interfere with any law of the land, are privileges which the American people for four score years and more have boasted, and are incidents that should follow a Republican form of government. Whenever all subjects may be freely discussed, all wrongs and abuses freely exposed, it is morally certain that the right must prevail. The liberty of the Press is the palladium of all true liberty; with it despotism is impossible, without it inevitable In this great State of Pennsylvania the widest range is given to this interchange of opinion, the greatest freedom is enjoyed by all. How different in that part of our country, wherein open rebellion to the Government that sustained and nourished them, now defiantly floats the new Secession flag, under which the liberty of the Press is muzzled and anything like freedom of thought, speech or action crushed out unless directed in a peculiar channel—where the raising of the American flag, that has protected them in years gone by, would be certain death—where no man from Pennsylvania could with safety travel, and where an utterance of a loyal sentiment would be just cause for arrest and punishment! We have been led into this vein by seeing Congressman Burnett, of Kentucky, quietly and pleasantly moving through our place in the Express train of Monday morning last, on his way home. No one thought of molesting him, and he was permitted even here to express his rebellious sentiments—to utter his traitorous views. That this man, enjoying the opinions that he seems to do, would be unprincipled enough to take his seat at our National Capital, at a time like this, seems strange—and stranger still, that he should be permitted there to express those opinions, treasonable in their character at least. However, no doubt the rights we enjoy here should be extended to him, so long as no actual treason is committed. That this difference of the rights of individuals —of personal liberty and security—exists between our brethren and ourselves, is the most powerful argument we could adduce why our cause should prevail, and the surest guaranty that the great mass of the people of the Southern States, now ignorant of the cause of the war, or the purposes of the Government, (being purposely kept in ignorance by such men as Burnett, and the Press of his District,) when rightly informed of the true position of affairs, will gladly rally again around the old Stars and Stripes they have so well assisted in defending and sustaining in past times. Woe then be to the leaders and unfaithful public servants, who, to gratify their own selfish ambition, sought to destroy the best of Governments, dedicated in freedom's name by our fathers and theirs, to all of us, as the richest legacy we were capable of inheriting. Among the worst of these, judging by his recent course and conduct, we would class Mr. Burnett, of Kentucky.

Southern Cotton and Northern Shipping.—In one of his recent letters to the London Times, Mr. Russel relates a curious suggestion made by a French gentleman now in New Orleans, to some ardent cotton planters there. He stated to them that even if the blockade were broken by England and France, as they hoped it would be, the available shipping of these two nations would not suffice to carry the cotton crop to Europe, and that without the aid of the immense mercantile marine of the Northern States, Southern cotton would lie and rot in southern ports, even were they open. This is a calculation more curious than useful; but it is another instance to show how accurately the ties were fitted together which these rebels are endeavoring to tear asunder.

Thomas A. Scott.

It has been with no small degree of pleasure that the numerous friends of Thomas A. Scott, in this place and elsewhere, have noticed his rapid advancement from one post of honor and responsibility to another, until he has arrived within a step of the head of the nation, his station being that of Assistant Secretary of War, but now, in reality, Secretary of War, as Simon Cameron is absent recruiting his health and energies. And this position has been gained not through the intercession of influential friends, but solely on the ground of merit; neither have political considerations had anything to do with his selection, as it is known that his predilections differ from those of the Administration, although he has never been a politician.

His promotion affords pleasure to his friends, not only out of respect for the man, but because they have every confidence in his ability to discharge the duties of his office with credit to himself and the best interests of the country. The Secretary of War has heretofore acknowledged his indebtedness to Mr. S. for valuable assistance rendered as Superintendent of Transportation, and the Administration well knows that, in all probability, there is no other man in the country so well qualified to take charge of the affairs to be committed to the care of the Assistant Secretary of War. He is emphatically the man for the times and place. No man is more familiar with the capacities of the different Railroads in the country, a knowledge essentially necessary at this time, when large bodies of men, and heavy stores of provision and ammunition are to be moved with rapidity, and his perfect understanding of Railroad management enables him to direct these movements without confusion.

It is a pleasure to us to note that true worth and merit has been rewarded, and, from the complimentary manner in which Mr. Scott's appointment is noticed by all our cotemporaries, we believe it one of the most popular that could have been made.

☞ We were shown, a few days ago, a very interesting and well written letter from Dr. J. Cooper McKee, formerly of this place, but for several years past Surgeon in the U. S. Army in New Mexico, to Hon. L. W. Hall. It will gratify the Dr.'s numerous friends to know that he is well,—the rough, wild life necessary to his position agreeing with him. Although in a part of the territory where secession rages he is manfully battling for the Union and says the Rebels will be driven out of that country by the force of public opinion,—that the Union sentiment is fast gaining ground. Dr. McKee ranks high as a Surgeon with his brethren in the Army. We hope soon to hear of his promotion, as his worth and talents unite in warranting it.

Munificent Donation.—It was announced at the late meeting of the Alumni of Yale College, that the Scientific Department of that Institution had received, during the Collegate year, a second donation of $50,000 from Joseph E. Sheffield, Esq., of New Haven. The course of education in this Department is essentially that of the Polytechnic Schools of Europe, and is designed to fit young men for commercial and other practical pursuits, as well as for the direct applications of Science.

"Brethren, let us Drill."—When the news of the repulse at Manassas had reached Camp Meeting at Desplaines, Ill., Rev. Henry Cox, the large hearted pastor of Wabash Avenue, M. E. ☞ It appears by an examination of the two volunteer bills, one being supplemental to the other, that the President has the power to call one million of men into the field, although that extent of authority was not, it is believed, designed. It is not thought, therefore, that more than 500,000 will be accepted.

Death of Bishop Bowman.

By telegraph we learn that the Right Reverend Samuel Bowman, Assistant Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, died suddenly on Saturday last, while on a trip from Pittsburgh to Butler, in this State. We have not learned the exact cause of his death. The Harrisburg Telegraph, of last Monday renders the following tribute to his memory:

For more than a quarter of a century, we believe, he was the rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, in the city of Lancaster, where he had gathered around him a congregation unsurpassed in extent, devotion and learning, by any other parish of its dimensions in the country, and as an evidence of the strength of devotion between the Bishop and his old congregation, they would not give up his pastoral care, even while the pressing duties of his Bishopric called him to a wider field and more enlarged duties.

Bishop Bowman was an eminent scholar, a learned divine, and a Christian man of most exemplary character and unblemished reputation. He was the friend of the poor, the counsellor of the rich, the admonisher of the erring, and the prayerful sympathiser with the repentant.—From a position of lofty responsibility and distinguished eminence, he regarded the humblest man in the church as his equal, while he would acknowledge no superiority or exclusiveness in the circles of a Christian brotherhood, save that which was achieved by a test of faith, or a practice of good works and holy precepts. In the death of Bishop Bowman, the Episcopal Church has lost a representative whose labors had distinguished its already world-wide reputation, and added to religion at least the glory of the sincerity and the success of one man's devotion to religion.

Feminine Revenge.—The ire of a fair daughter of Amsterdam—Mad. Van S.—was caused by the mischance of Mynheer D., a zealous member of one of the volunteer rifle corps of that dull but handsome city, who, when practicing at a target, unluckily shot the cat of Madame Van S. Though full of rage and grief at the loss of her favorite, and bent upon revenge, the lady was anxious not to say anything that could implicate her husband in the affair, dreading lest a duel between the two gentlemen might be the result, and accordingly determined to avenge upon Madame D. the tragic death of the unfortunate animal. She therefore sent private orders to her husbands foreman—Mynheer Van S. is one of the most extensive shipowners in the city—desiring him to have the holds of their ships searched for rats, and to send her fifty of the finest specimens of those creatures that he could succeed in causing to be taken alive.

The order was promptly executed, and the rats safely shut up in a large chest, were despatched by the bereaved Vrau to the country house whither the D——s had betaken themselves for the summer. The chest reached its destination in safety, arriving just as the owners of the place were enjoying the beauty of a lonely summer evening. Madame D——, who was expecting a box of dresses from town, and supposing the chest to contain the looked for finery, caused it to be brought into the dining-room and opened under her own eyes. Her "feelings," when the lid was raised and the avenging army leaped forth from its ambush, may be immagined. Nailed to the under side of the lid was a letter addressed to the dismayed and astonished lady, and contained these words:

"Madame: Your husband has killed my cat, I have the honor to send you my rats.
"Yours, &c., ADELA VAN S——."

☞ Since the battle of Manassas, writes a Southern correspondent, Richmond is literally swarming with ex-office holders in Washington. They held on there until they were kicked out, took the oath of allegiance to Lincoln's despotism, and now have crawled down to Richmond, since Sunday, asking for office because Lincoln turned them out for their Southern sentiments. Will you believe it, we have many such creatures in office here now

A Daring Exploit.

The rebel steamer "Sumter," within the past few weeks, has captured a dozen or more of our merchantmen, put prize crews on board, and sent them to rebel ports. On one of these prizes, a crew of five pirates was placed. The ship's crew remaining on board consisted of William Tillman (a colored steward,) a German sailor, another seaman and a passenger. Fifty miles from Charleston, Tillman (the colored man) proposed to the German a plan for the re capture of the vessel. He talked to two of the men but they declined; he then thought the matter over for two or three days, and then appealed to the German, saying, "if you are a man to stick to your word, we can take this vessel, easy." Tillman gave the following testimony before the District Attorney of New York City:

"Then we made a plan that I should go to my berth, and when most of them were asleep, he was to give me some sign, or awake me. We tried this for two nights, but no good chance offered. But last Tuesday night we caught them asleep, and we went to work. The mate comes to my berth and he touches me. He says 'now is your time.' I went into my room and got my hatchet. The first man I struck was the Captain. He was lying in a state-room on the starboard side. I aimed for his temple, as near as I could, and hit him just below the ear with the edge of the hatchet. With that he made a very loud shriek. The passenger jumped up, very much in a fright. I told him to be still; that I wouldn't hurt a hair of his head. The passenger knew what I was up to; he never said a word more. I walked right across the cabin to the second mate's room, and I gave him one severe blow right across the middle of his head. I didn't stop to see whether he was dead or no; but I jumped on deck, and as I did so, the mate, who had been sleeping on the companion-way, started from the noise he had heard in the cabin. Just as he rose upon his feet, I struck him in the back of the head.—Then the German chap jumped over, and we 'mittened' on to him, and flung him over the starboard quarter.

Marshall—"What did you do then?"

Tillman—"Then we went down straight into the cabin. The second mate was not quite dead. He was sitting leaning against the berth. I 'catched' him by the hair of the head with my left hand, and I struck him with the hatchet I had in my right hand. I told this young German, 'Well let's get him overboard as soon as we can' So we hauled him over on to the cabin."

Marshall—"Was he quite dead?"

Tillman—"No: he was not quite dead, but he would not have lived long. We flung him over the starboard quarter. Then I told this German to go and call that man Jim, the southern chap (one of the pirates) here. He called him aft. Says I 'Jim, come down here in the cabin. Do you know that I have taken charge of this vessel to-night? I am going to put you in irons. 'Well,' says he, 'I am willing.' He gave right up I kept him in irons till 8 o'clock the next morning. I then sent the German for him and asked him to join us and help take the vessel back. 'But mind, the least crook or the least turn, and overboard you go with the rest.' 'Well,' said he, I will do the best I can,' and he worked well all the way back. He couldn't do otherwise. It was pump or sink!

"They didn't have any chance to beg. It was all done in five minutes. In seven minutes and a half after I struck the first blow, the vessel was squared away before the wind, and all sail set. We were fifty miles to the south of Charleston, and one hundred to the eastward."

Marshall—"I guess you have been in the habit of killing hogs?"

Tillman—"I never killed but one before, and that was a pig."

Tillman said that at first he had thought of securing all the men, and bringing all of them to New York alive in irons; but he found this was impracticable. To use his own language—"There were five of them, and only three of us. After this I said, 'well, I will get all back I can, alive, and the rest I will kill." Tillman says he went away as a steward, but came back as a captain.

Bryce Mackinnon, a passenger, and others on board recount the same story, in different style, but all confirming Tillman's simple narrative. The schooner now lies off the Battery, where she attracts great attention.

Harper's Ferry.

Harry Coggshell, direct from Harper's Ferry, has given us several items of news of importance, which we print for the benefit of our readers. Gen. Banks has removed the main body of his troops to a ravine about a mile south-east of Harper's Ferry, while Doubleday's batterry commands Sheppard's Ford and Perkins' batterry commands Leesburg. Gen. Banks has about eighteen thousand men in his command and is being reinforced daily, and expects in all this week, to have about twenty-five thousand men in his column. He occupies Harper's Ferry now with three companies of the Massachusetts Ninth, which are quartered in what shelter is afforded by what remains of the government buildings. The town is completely desolated, the government work-shops having been destroyed, all labor stopped, while the necessities of life cannot be purchased at any price in the town.

Should the enemy attempt to approach or attack Harper's Ferry from Leesburg or Sheppard's Ford, the three companies quartered in the work-shops would of course retreat to the other side, and the reception of the enemy left to Doubleday's and Perkins' batteries. Our informant expresses the utmost confidence in Gen. Banks' ability to repulse the enemy, should he appear in double the force of the federal troops, and the move of General Banks in occupying his present position is spoken of in the highest terms by the ablest army officers in that column, showing a sagacity equal to the most experienced commanders in the field.

A Rebel Son of a Patriotic Father.—Hon. James B. Clay was a member of Congress. He is the son of "Harry of the West," but he has inherited from the "old man" only the old homestead, which he sold, in the shape of canes as mementoes, and the name whose lustre he has dimmed. The Hon. James B. has lately gone to speculating in less honored articles, and for an M. C. has developed into a smuggler.—With ten wagons loaded with bacon, Clay undertook a trip to Tennessee via Cumberland Gap. The wagons started and the owner followed immediately. By slow approaches the Gap was neared, and the fearful passage of this neutral State almost completed without any fatal accident to his bacon. Clay began to congratulate himself on his success. He had passed the more rapid Union counties and was nearing the Gap when a small company of Union men, having the fear of God in their hearts, the good of the nation in their minds, and a desire for good bacon in their stomachs, marched out upon the road and ordered the teamsters to disgorge.—The wagons were delivered of their burdens and the bacon stacked by the wayside. The wagoners and the Hon. James B. Clay were compelled to take the oath of allegiance to the Union and then, sans bacon, with their courage oozed out of their fingers' ends, they were allowed to return.

☞ An interesting incident of the surrender of Col. Pegram is thus raised. When Pegram advanced to hand his sword to Major Lawrence Williams, each instantly recognized the other, and both were moved to tears, and turned away unable to speak for several minutes. They had been College classmates, and had not, thus, for the first time in several years.

A REBEL WAR-VESSEL SUNK!

THIRTY-SIX PRISONERS TAKEN.

Philadelphia, August 7, 1861.

The United States gun-boat "Flag," Commander Sartori, (formerly called the "Phineas Sprague,") arrived off the Powder Magazine at Fort Mifflin this morning, from Savannah.

She brought thirty-six pirate prisoners, taken from a rebel vessel of war off Charleston, on the afternoon of the first instant. The rebel craft was sunk by a broadside from the United States frigate St. Lawrence. Five of her men were drowned, but the remaining thirty-six were saved, and are now prisoners.

They were put on board the "Flag," where they have been heavily ironed and under a constant guard. We are informed that they are a villianous looking set of fellows. The vessel that was sunk was formerly the United States revenue cutter, "Aiken;" she was seized by the Secessionists at Charleston, last November.

The officers of the "Aiken" evidently did not understand the character of the St. Lawrence. She came boldly out of Charleston harbor, and fired two shots at her. The St. Lawrence returned the fire, and sunk her at the first discharge, but rescued most of those on board, as we have already stated.

The rebel vessel, we are informed, was called the "Petrel," under her new commission. The St. Lawrence's shot are said to have cut her completely in two.

BATTLE IN MISSOURI.

FEDERAL TROOPS VICTORIOUS.

St. Louis, Mo., August 6.—A battle has occurred to-day at dug spring, nineteen miles south of Springfield, Missouri, between the Federal forces under General Lyon and the Rebel troops under Ben McCulloch.

Eight of the Federal troops were killed and thirty wounded.

The rebels lost forty killed and forty-four wounded.

General Lyon took eighty stand of arms and fifteen horses and wagons.

A body of U. S. Cavalry, two hundred and seventy in number, made a charge on the rebel infantry, said to have been four thousand strong, and cut their way through them, and returned with a loss of only five men.

The charge is described as most gallant as well as terrific.

Several of the rebels were found with their heads cloven entirely through by the swords of our dragoons.

The enemy retired during the night, and General Lyon took posession of the field.

Another battle was momentarily expected, the enemy being in large force west of Springfield.

The particulars of the fight will be transmitted as soon as possible.

Maj. Gen. Butler Arrested.—Gen. M'Clellan's reforms seem to be working like a charm. Previous to his arrival, and especially since the battle of Bull Run, Washington city was filled with officers and soldiers, who were absent without leave from their encampments. A patrol was appointed, with power to arrest, and place in the guard-house every officer and private found without a permit. The city was divided into patrol districts, and a squad of from ten to twenty soldiers, under a lieutenant, assigned to each district. They marched round upon the sidewalks, and all the privates who were found without a permit were sent to the guard-house. Having disposed of the privates, and returned them all to their regiments, the patrol paid their attention to officers. Many were found without the necessary paper, and among them a number of cavalry and mounted infantry officers, who were obliged to relinquish their chargers and march to the guard-house. Among the arrests made on the Avenue, on Sunday evening, by the provost patrol, was that of Maj. Gen. Butler, who had within a few hours arrived from Fortress Monroe. The General had no permit to produce, and was held until he was satisfactorily identified. He expressed himself in strong terms in favor of this system of military police.

☞ The law just passed by Congress, giving to the President power to close certain ports, presents a new question to European diplomatists. This government does not admit that it blockaded any of the ports of the South, or that it is now blockading any of those ports. It closed the ports in the absence of Congress because the laws of the United States could not be executed in them, and Mr. Lincoln to-day takes the ground that, without a solitary vessel at Charleston, the English government would be guilty of a violation of the law of nations if she attempted to carry on trade with that port. The Secretary of the Navy will use all his forces to see the law of Congress is respected, but he does not consider it blockading those ports but an embargo, and the Government will consider any foreign vessel a lawful prize, at any place whenever and wherever found, if it has at any time entered one of our closed ports, after due notice thereof.

Killed by Lightning.—A terrible occurrence transpired one day last week, near Winchester, Crawford county, O. A farmer named Hainey and his wife were out in a field, making hay, when a thunder-shower coming on, they fled to a tree for shelter. Mr. Hainey stood near the trunk of the tree, holding in one hand a fork with the tines pointing upward. While in this position the fork was struck by lightning, and Mr. H. instantly killed, and, sad to relate, his wife, who was but a few feet distant, shared the same fate. The handle of the fork was shivered to pieces, but otherwise very little trace of the electric fluid was left behind.

☞ One of the Fire Zouaves, who had been in the battle of Bull Run, and vamosed very soon thereafter, was recognized near Washington Market, New York, a day or two ago.—"What the devil are you doing here?" asked the acquaintance when he recognized him—"Got leave of absence?" "No!" thundered the Zouave—"I got the word to 'fall back' at Bull Run, and nobody has told me to halt! so I have kept on retreatin' ever since, and got away here!" Who says that Fire Zouave is not under thorough discipline?

☞ A detachment from the New York Twenty-eighth Regiment, stationed at Sandy Hook, Md., on Monday crossed the river and surprised a squadron of rebel cavalry at a house opposite the Point of Rocks. They killed three, wounded five, and captured seven. They also captured the horses and re-crossed the river without suffering any loss whatever. It is reported that a considerable body of rebel cavalry have occupied Martinsburg.

☞ Brigham Young has thrown off his allegiance to the United States Government, and declared the independence of the Territory.—The Mormons were arming in every direction, to maintain their independence, at all hazards.

☞ The Fire Zouaves are caged at Richmond in a factory, with bars through which the people stare at them as a curiosity.

☞ We invite special attention to the advertisement of Prof. Wood's Restorative Cordial and Blood Renovator, in another column. For weakness and general debility there is nothing like it; it will strengthen, exhilarate, create an appetite at once, regulate the billous system, aid digestion and in short, restore the weakened organs to all their original vigor and strength. So valuable a Tonic Cordial should be in the hands of every invalid and in every family. Reader, try it.

☞ Even those who are in the enjoyment of perfect health frequently have need to have recourse to tonics as preventives of disease. We are never too well armored against the assaults of "the ills that flesh is heir to."—Such an invigorator they may find in HOSTETTER'S BITTERS—a medicine that cannot be taken regularly without giving vitality and elasticity to the system. At this season, particularly, the strongest man is not proof against the malaria, in certain sections of the country. In all cases of fever and ague, the BITTERS is more potent than amount of quinine, while the most dangerous cases of bilious fever yield to its wonderful properties. Those who have tried the medicine will never use another, for any of the ailments which the Hostetter Bitters professes to subdue. To those who have not made the experiment, we cordially recommend an early application to the Bitters, whenever they are stricken by diseases of the digestive organs. ☞ Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

☞ We take great pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Prof. Wood's Restorative Cordial and Blood Renovator, in another column of our paper. It is seldom we take any notice of patent medicines, but we cannot refrain from speaking of this Cordial and do justice to the afflicted as well as ourselves. We have watched the progress of this Cordial since its first introduction to the public, and we are satisfied that there is nothing in use for cleaning the system and renovating the blood, that can be compared with Prof. Wood's Cordial.—Any one suffering from general debility, after using one bottle will see its beneficial effects. We have a long acquaintance with the proprietor, and know him to be skilled in the science of medicine; and anything compounded by him the public can rely upon as being just what it is recommended. We would advise all sick or well to get a bottle. It is pleasant to the taste, and exhilarating to the system. But we refrain from further comments, as any one, after using one bottle, will be satisfied as to its effects Adjourned to meet on the first Monday of August, 1861, at 7½ o'clock, P. M.—Extract from Minutes.

RAIL ROAD ACCIDENT.—On Thursday morning last, the Express Passenger Train West, composed of two engines and eleven cars, met with a serious accident at the switch immediately below Manayunk station, in Mifflin county, by which one man was killed and several slightly injured, and three engines and several cars completely wrecked. It appears that an Eastward-bound freight train, the engine of which had become disabled, was standing on the main track, above the switch, and the switch-tender, in order to let the passenger train pass without hindrance, turned the switch to let it run from the main track to the siding, and placed signal caps on the rail below the switch to caution the engineer to run slowly; but the signals were too close to the switch and the engineer had not time to check up the heavy train. The consequence was that the first engine jumped the track when it struck the switch, and the second engine and train kept the main track until they came in collision with the disabled engine, when the second engine was thrown over the siding and down an embankment some twenty feet. The front cars were considerably wrecked. The person who was killed was standing on one of the platforms, and, in attempting to jump off, struck the embankment and rolled back under the cars. Had he been inside, in all probability, he would not have been hurt.

PETTY ROBBERIES.—On Tuesday afternoon of last week the shoe-maker shop of Joseph Brenner, in this place, was entered during his brief absence of ten or fifteen minutes, and two pairs of boots stolen. The thieving rascal entered at the window and took what first came in his way, which happened to be the best boots in the shop.

On Friday night the dwelling house of James H. Bell was entered and his pantaloons and watch were stolen. (The watch is one of M. J. Tobias' make, Liverpool, No. 166, detached lever, 13 jewels.) The thief opened the front door and deliberately walked into the chamber where Mr. Bell was sleeping, and took what he could find "lying around loose." His pocket-book was in his pants pocket, but fortunately there was no money in it, but it contained some valuable notes and other papers; one not including interest worth $75.—Hollidaysburg Register.

GOOD NEWS.—Not long ago we were startled by the sorrowful accounts of the sad repulse at Manassas. The spirits of every one drooped when the woeful tidings became generally known, and men whose countenances were usually lit up with gay smiles, now appeared in dark and fearful looks; but at the first sound of better news, and when our loss was set to a certainty, falling to one-tenth of the first report, they again began to assume their natural appearance, and things went on as usual. Good news is always welcome. We can always trace happy results to good tidings, and we doubt not that many will be gladdened by hearing that A. Roush still keeps constantly on hand Drugs, Medicines, Paints, Patent Medicines, Carbon Oil and everything that is generally kept in good Drug Stores, of which he will dispose at the lowest prices at his store, above the Post Office.

☞ Rev. John D. Brown and wife will leave Huntingdon to-night for New York, where they will take a vessel for India, the scene of his future labors as a missionary. He has the energy, ability, and we believe piety to make a successful advocate of the Cross of Christ, in that benighted portion of our globe.

Rev. S. M. L. Consor, of the M. E. Church, preached his farewell sermon to the people of Huntingdon on Sunday last, preparatory to leaving for the seat of war, whence he has been called as Chaplain to the 5th Regiment Penna. Reserved corps.

SAD CASE OF DROWNING.—One of the most distressing occurrences that has fallen to our lot to record took place in our town on Monday evening last. Two little boys, sons of Geo. A. Jacobs and John Cox, Esq., respectively, went, unknown to their friends, to the Canal, just across the Basin, to swim, in the latter part of the afternoon, and at half-past seven o'clock in the evening were found drowned. Their clothes were discovered by Mr. Cox on the bank of the Canal, as he was passing by, and instant search revealed to the unhappy parent that his "Harry" and his little companion "Jimmy" were drowned. Immediate efforts were made for their resuscitation, but it was in vain, for an examination disclosed the fact that they had probably been in the water an hour. The boys were aged respectively six and five years, and were well known to all as lovely and interesting children. Two families have thus, without a moment's warning, lost the lights of their households, and sustained such a calamity as only fond parents can feel. Let the sad fate of those innocents be a warning to our people, else, before the season is closed, more will be called upon to mourn the untimely fate of some of their little ones.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

A SUGGESTION.—In view of the efforts now being made in our town to organize one or more Zouave companies for active service, it has been suggested, as a means of awakening the proper spirit among our young men, and at the same time affording ample gratification to our citizens, that an invitation be extended to the Johnstown Zouaves (said to have been one of the best disciplined and most skillful corps in the service,) to give an exhibition of their military skill in our midst at an early day. Of course this would necessitate a small outlay on the part of our public spirited citizens, as the expenses of the Company would have to be borne. But aside from the pleasure such an exhibition would afford every beholder, there is no one but has an opportunity of "getting his money back" by purchasing his goods at the Cheap Cash Store of Murphy & McPike, corner of Virginia and Caroline streets, where an immense stock of Dry Goods and Groceries of every description is kept constantly on hand, and sold at the lowest possible figures. Call and see them. *

MESSRS. EDITORS:—As the time is drawing nigh when the people of this county, in Convention, will be called upon to select a candidate, to be supported, at the ensuing election, for a seat in the next Legislature, let me urge upon the nominating Convention the name of BENJAMIN F. ROSE, Esq., of Altoona—a man in every respect fully qualified, and, in fact, the very man for the times, to fill that important position. Mr. Rose is a man fresh from the ranks of the people, one who has never permitted his name to be brought before a nominating Convention, or claimed the suffrages of the people, although his merits and claims are far superior to many who are now offering. Should he receive the nomination, and be elected to this, at this time, very important position, he would reflect honor upon himself and his constituents.

LOGAN.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.—We, the Grand Jurors of the Court of Quarter Sessions of Blair County, Pa, beg leave to offer the following report:—

That we visited the Blair County Almshouse on the 25th of July, and found the same in a perfect state of cleanliness and in good order; and as a body, we consider it due to the Stewart, and Lady of the House, that the thanks of the County should be tendered to them for their strict care and management of the same, and for the good order which prevails.

And we further recommend that a wagon-shed and corn-crib be erected for the use of said premises. Also a flag for the building, as the one now in use has become very much dilapidated.

Signed by the Foreman of the Grand Jury.

☞ The M. E. Sunday School Pic Nic, held on Thursday last, passed off delightfully. The day was fine, and the old folks and young folks all in good humor, with plenty of good eatables.

The colored folks of this place celebrated the 1st of August in Beale's Woods. Report says they had a good time of it.

The United Brethren Sunday School Pic Nic comes off to-day. There will be a profusion of good things on hand, and a merry party to partake of them. May they have a fine day.

THE ARMY WORM.—We are sorry to learn that this destructive worm has made its appearance in this county, and is destroying fields of oats and corn. Many of our citizens have found them in their gardens, playing havoc with their vegetables, but did not at first know what they were. They are doing much damage throughout the Western States. We have not yet seen any mode of destroying them, or staying their ravages, discovered.

MILITARY.—We understand that a number of military companies are about being formed in this county for active service, for three years or during the war. Capt. Henry Wayne, Lieut. S. C. Potts, John M. Clark, Richard Crozier and J. W. Hicks, are all recruiting companies, and as they are all "bully" fellows, we presume they will soon be ready for the field again. This mountainous region produces military men.

☞ A leak in the water pipe which conveys the water from the reservoir at the Pottsgrove Mills to the reservoir at this place, and also supplies the Company's engines, cut short the supply on Tuesday evening last. It was soon discovered and repaired.

FRUIT JARS.—R. A. O. Kerr has just received at his store, a large assortment of Rockingham's Fruit Jars, which are claimed to be equally, if not superior to any others now in market.—Persons about to select fruit cans would do well to examine these before making their selections.

LOST.—On Wednesday morning last, a blank book containing a number of private letters, of no value to any one but the owner. Any person finding the book will confer a favor on the owner by leaving it at the Post Office.

PIC NIC.—The members of Veranda Lodge, I. O. O. F., will hold their Fourth Annual Pic Nic in Miller's Woods, west of town, on Saturday week, the 17th August. Tickets for the affair have been issued—price $1—very cheap for the amount of pleasure to be enjoyed.

☞ The Ebensburg & Cresson Railroad is about to be completed, and the iron horse will soon be introduced to a new section of country. When it is opened we're going up to see what kind of a place they call Ebensburg.

☞ The Supreme Court has reversed the decision in the case of Charles Hughes vs. the Penna. R. R. Co. The verdict of the Court below was in favor of Hughes, and the Company took a writ of error.

THE FAIR THING.—The citizens of Hollidaysburg did the fair thing in the way of receiving their returned volunteers. The boys must have felt particularly happy.

For the Tribune.

The Three Months Soldiers.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—As our term of enlistment has expired, and the Three Months Volunteers returned to their various homes, perhaps a few brief remarks in review of the past might not be inappropriate, and by your leave I will say a few words in their behalf.

Some have sneeringly asked, "What have you done that is worthy of remark? The war is scarce begun, and just on the eve of your retirement the Federal Army has been defeated, and yet in view, and with a knowledge of these facts staring us all in the face, an effort is made to eulogize the Three Months Volunteer system!" Now, Messrs. Editors, this is all true, and it is equally true that there are some among us who have had the presumption to ask the above silly question. When the war became inevitable, and these men were called into service by the President, they were only required for three months. We all know how promptly our citizens responded to that call, and by men, too, of every rank and condition in life. Had we been called out for three, or even five years, instead of three months, I have sufficient confidence in the patriotism of those men to believe they would have responded to the call as freely as they did for three short months. Did those premature patriots but emulate the example thus shown them, instead of staying at home, prating, like old grannies, about loyalty and patriotism, things they know nothing about, they would take their muskets in hand, and endeavor to improve on the example already set before them.

There are thousands of 3 months men already on the roll of re-enlistment, and thousands ready, willing and determined to swell the number; and when the country calls again, it will find an ample sufficiency of pure patriots already in waiting. See, for instance, in our town of Altoona, several Company officers, who left this place three months ago, are now endeavoring, and successfully, too, to return in defence of their country. And this success lies almost exclusively in the ranks of their recent commands. Does this look like cowardice or disloyalty? Farthest from either! And had our officers in high position, in numerous instances, been men of worth and ability, scarce even a regiment of men but would have returned in a body to the rescue; instead of seeking out new officers to command them.

Yes, Messrs. Editors, our army has suffered a defeat, and perhaps the three months men have been the innocent cause of it. But in that defeat they have clearly demonstrated, by their undoubted valor, that men of equal courage and fidelity are required to command and lead them on to victory. Some of our officers on that memorable occasion alluded to were so grossly intoxicated as to be scarcely capable of maintaining their relative positions, while another actually refused to accept that assigned him by his superior. It is such men as these that your three months soldier despises. What wonder he should return home, after honestly and faithfully serving out his time,—then, after a brief and heartfelt repose, choose his own well tried commander, and return again with confidence to the contest? No, gentlemen, the man is an idiot who charges the Three Months' Soldiers with cowardice, or even disloyalty. He is mistaken who harbors such a thought.

I remain, gentlemen,
Very respectfuly yours,
J. I. BLAIS.

In Bloomfield, Perry county, Pa., on Friday, August 2d, 1861, HARRY LOCKWOOD, only son of Solomon and Emily Jane Sherfy, aged eight months.

How are our hopes, our lambent visions fled!
How disappointment racks our grief-torn heart!
Our sole delight, our darling infant's dead!
Thus end all earthly joys, thus dear connections part.

Fondly we hoped, how vain that hope appears!
Our smiling boy would live for days to come;
With filial love would soothe our length'ning years,
And twine a living wreath to grace our humble tomb.

The Savior said, while journeying here below;
Savior, our babe we dedicate to thee,
In thy dear arms to rest, secure from pining wo.

PROF. O. J. WOOD'S
RESTORATIVE CORDIAL
AND BLOOD RENOVATOR.

IS precisely what its name indicates, for while pleasant to the taste, it is revivifying, exhilarating and strengthening to the vital powers. It also revivifies, reinstates and renews the blood in all its original purity, and thus restores and renders the system invulnerable to attacks of disease. It is the only preparation ever offered to the world in a popular form so as to be within the reach of all.

So chemically and skillfully combined as to be the most powerful tonic, and yet so perfectly adapted so as to act in perfect accordance with the laws of nature, and hence soothe the weakest stomach and tone up the digestive organs, and allay all nervous and other irritation. It is also perfectly exhilarating in its effects, and yet it is never followed by lassitude or depression of spirits. It is composed entirely of vegetables, and those thoroughly combining powerful tonic and soothing properties, and consequently can never injure. As a sure preventive and cure of

CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, LOSS OF APPETITE, FAINTNESS, NERVOUS IRRITABILITY, NEURALGIA, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, MELANCHOLY, NIGHT SWEATS, LANGUOR, GIDDINESS, AND ALL THAT CLASS OF CASES SO FEARFULLY FATAL CALLED FEMALE WEAKNESS, AND IRREGULARITIES.

THERE IS NOTHING ITS EQUAL.

Also, Liver Derangements or Torpidity, and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidney, or any general derangement of the Urinery organs.

It will not only cure the debility following CHILLS and FEVER, but prevent all attacks arising from Miasmatic influences, and cure the diseases at once, if already attacked.

Travelers should have a bottle with them, as it will infallibly prevent any deleterious consequences following upon change of climate and water.

As it prevents costiveness, strengthens the digestive organs, it should be in the hands of all persons of sedentary habits.

Ladies not accustomed to much out-door exercise should always use it.

Mothers should use it, for it is a perfect relief, taken a month or two before the final trial, she will pass the dreadful period with perfect ease and safety.

There is no mistake about it.

THE CORDIAL IS ALL WE CLAIM FOR IT!

MOTHERS, TRY IT!!

And to you we appeal, to detect the illness or decline not only of your daughters before it be too late, but also your sons and husbands, for while the former from false delicacy, often go down to a premature grave, rather than let their condition be known in time, the latter are often so mixed up with the excitement of business, that if it were not for you, they too, would travel in the same downward path until it is too late to arrest their fatal fall. But the mother is always vigilant, and to you we confidently appeal; for we are sure your never-failing affection will unerringly point you to PROF. WOOD'S RESTORATIVE CORDIAL AND BLOOD RENOVATOR as the remedy which should always be on hand in time of need.

PROF. L. MILLER'S

HAIR INVIGORATOR!!

AN EFFECTIVE, SAFE AND ECONOMICAL COMPOUND.

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR to its original color without dyeing, and preventing the hair from turning gray.

FOR PREVENTING BALDNESS, and curing it, when there is the least particle of vitality or recuperative energy remaining.

FOR REMOVING SCURF AND DANDRUFF, and all cutaneous affections of the Scalp.

FOR BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR, imparting to it an unequalled gloss and brilliancy, making it soft and silky in its texture and causing it to curl readily.

The great celebrity and the increasing demand for this unequalled preparation, convince the proprietor that one trial is only necessary to satisfy a discerning public of its superior qualities over any other preparation at present in use. It cleanses the head and scalp from dandruff and other cutaneous diseases, causes the hair to grow luxuriantly, and gives it a rich, soft, glossy flexible appearance, and also where the hair is loosening and thining, it will give strength and vigor to the roots, and restore the growth to those parts which have become bald, causing it to yield a fresh covering of hair.

There are hundreds of ladies and gentlemen in New York who have had their hair restored by the use of this Invigorator, when all other preparations had failed. L. M. has in his possession letters innumerable testifying to the above facts, from persons of the highest respectability. It will effectually prevent the hair from turning gray until the latest period of life; and in cases where the hair has already changed its color, the use of the Invigorator will with certainty restore it to its original hue, giving it a dark, glossy appearance. As a perfume for the toilet and a Hair Restorative it is particularly recommended, having an agreeable fragrance; and the great facilities it affords in dressing the hair, which, when moist with the Invigorator can be dressed in any required form so as to preserve its place, whether plain or in curls—hence the great demand for it by the ladies as a standard toilet article which none ought to be without, as the price places it within the reach of all, being per bottle, to be had at all respectable druggists and perfumers.

L. MILLER would call the attention of Parents and Guardians to the use of his Invigorator, in cases where the childrens' Hair inclines to be weak. The use of it lays the foundation for a good head of hair, as it removes any impurities that may have become connected with the scalp, the removal of which is necessary both for the health of the child, and the future appearance of its Hair.

CAUTION.—None genuine without the fac simile LOUIS MILLER being on the outer wrapper; also, L. MILLER'S HAIR INVIGORATOR, N. Y. blown in the glass.

Wholesale Depot, 56 Dey St., and sold by all the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the world.

LABOR-SAVING WASHING MACHINE.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVING purchased the right for Blair county, of

Tolhurst's Improved Washing Machine,

are now manufacturing them at Altoona, and intend to supply them to those persons throughout the county who desire a LABOR-SAVING MACHINE.

This machine is got up on an entirely new principle, and is considered, by those who have seen it in use, the best that has ever been brought before the public.

Among the many advantages of this machine over all others may be mentioned the following:

1st. Its simplicity of construction, making it almost impossible to get out of order.

2d. Its speed, which astonishes alike the operator and the looker on.

3rd. The facility with which it adapts itself to the bulk or quntity of clothes desired to be washed.

4th. It washes equally well the finest and lightest fabric or the coarsest and heaviest, such as bed-quilts, comforts, blankets, &c.

McMINN & DERN,
Altoona, Blair County, Pa.

We the undersigned, hereby certify that we are now using Tolhurst's Improved Washing Machine and are fully satisfied that it is a very excellent article of the kind; combining as it does great speed with little labor, and performing its work in the most satisfactory manner. We therefore cheerfully recommend it to all who desire a real labor-saving washing machine.

It must be seen to be believed.—Go and see Jesse if you want to see a live hatter and a fashionable stock.

He has also a fine assortment of CHILDREN'S HATS and FLATS, to which he invites the attention of sollicitous mothers. At his store they will find something which will excel all their neighbors in the way of fashion and beauty. Go, mothers, and examine and select from Jesse Smith's stock.

ALL THE STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES AT 1-tf. KESSLER'S.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS and PHŒNIX BITTERS.

THESE MEDICINE HAVES NOW been before the public for a period of thirty years, and during that time have maintained a high character in almost every part of the globe, for their extraordinary and immediate power of restoring perfect health to persons suffering under nearly every kind of disease to which the human frame is liable.

The following are among the distressing variety of human diseases in which the

are well known to be infallible.

DYSPEPSIA, by thoroughly cleansing the first and second stomachs, and creating a flow of pure, healthy bile, instead of the stale and acrid kind; FLATULENCY, Loss of Appetite, Heartburn, Headache, Restlessness, Ill Temper, Anxiety, Languor, and Melancholy, which are the general symptoms of Dyspepsia, will vanish, as a natural consequence of its cure.

COSTIVENESS, by cleansing the whole length of the intestines with a solvent process, and without violence; all violent purges leave the bowels costive within two days.

FEVERS of all kinds, by restoring the blood to a regular circulation, through the process of respiration in such cases, and the thorough solution of all intestinal obstruction in others.

The Life Medicines have been known to cure RHEUMATISM permanently in three weeks, and GOUT in half that time, by removing local inflammation from the muscles and ligaments of the joints.

DROPSIES of all kinds, by freeing and strengthening the kidneys and bladder: they operate most delightfully on these important organs, and hence have ever been found a certain remedy for the worst cases of GRAVEL.

Also WORMS, by dislodging from the turnings of the bowels the slimy matter to which these creatures adhere.

SCURVY, ULCERS, and INVETERATE SORES, by the perfect purity which these LIFE MEDICINES give to the blood, and all the humors.

SCORBUTIC ERUPTIONS and BAD COMPLEXIONS, by their alterative effect upon the fluids that feed the skin, and the morbid state of which occasions all eruptive complaints, sallow, cloudy, and other disagreeable complexions.

The use of these Pills for a very short time will effect an entire cure of SALT RHEUM, and a striking improvement in the clearness of the skin. COMMON COLDS and INFLUENZA will always be cured by one dose, or by two in the worst cases.

PILES.—The original proprietor of these medicines, was cured of Piles, of 35 years standing, by the use of the Life Medicines alone.

FEVER & AGUE.—For this scourge of the Western country, these medicines will be found a safe, speedy and certain remedy. Other medicines leave the system subject to a return of the disease—a cure by these medicines is permanent—try them, be satisfied, and be cured.

BILLIOUS FEVERS and LIVER COMPLAINTS.—General debility, loss of appetite, and diseases of females—the medicines have been used with the most beneficial results in cases of this description:—Kings Evil and Scrofula, in its worst forms, yields to the mild yet powerful action of these remarkable Medicines. Night Sweats, Nervous Debility, Nervous Complaints of all kinds, Palpitation of the Heart, Painters' Colic, are speedily cured.

MERCURIAL DISEASES.—Persons whose constitutions have become impaired by the injudicious use of Mercury, will find these medicines a perfect cure, as they never fail to eradicate from the system all the effects of Mercury, infinitely sooner than the most powerful preparation of Sarsaparilla.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES.

CONSUMPTION OF SMOKE AND GAS AND SAVING OF FUEL.

The subscriber takes pleasure in offering to the public NEW GAS AND SMOKE CONSUMING Cooking Stove, recently patented, which is destined to supercede all others, as it requires ONE-THIRD LESS FUEL than other stoves and is more easily, quickly and regularly heated. No unpleasant smell of gas arises from this stove from the fact that it is all consumed ere it can escape. There is no trouble from smoke as that unpleasant and often annoying exhalation is also consumed inside of the stove. Neither is there any danger of flues or chimneys becoming clogged with soot or the mortar loosened by the gas arising from coal fires.

HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS.

The proprietors and manufacturers of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS can appeal with perfect confidence to physicians and citizens generally of the United States, because the article has attained a reputation heretofore unknown. A few facts upon this point will speak more powerfully than volumes of bare assertion or blazoning puffery. The consumption of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for the last year amounted to over a half-million bottles, and from its manifest steady increase in times past, it is evident that during the coming year the consumption will reach near one million bottles. This immense amount could never have been sold but for the rare medicinal properties contained in the preparation, and the sanction of the most prominent physicians in those sections of the country where the article is best known, who not only recommend the Bitters to their patients, but are ready at all times to give testimonials to its efficacy in all cases of stomachic derangements and the diseases resulting therefrom.

This is not a temporary popularity, obtained by extraordinary efforts in the way of trumpeting the qualities of the Bitters, but a solid estimation of an invaluable medicine, which is destined to be as enduring as time itself.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have proved a Godsend to regions where fever and ague and various other billious complaints have counted their victims by hundreds. To be able to state confidently that the "Bitters" are a certain cure for the Dyspepsia and like diseases, is to the proprietors a source of unalloyed pleasure. It removes all morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, and imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving it that tone and energy indispensable for the restoration of health. It operates upon the stomach, liver, and other digestive organs, mildly but powerfully, and soon restores them to a condition essential to the healthy discharge of the functions of nature.

Elderly persons may use the Bitters daily as per directions on the bottle, and they will find in it a stimulant peculiarly adapted to comfort declining years, as it is pleasant to the palate, invigorating to the bowels, excellent as a tonic, and rejuvenating generally. We have the evidence of thousands of aged men and women who have experienced the benefit of using this preparation while suffering from stomach derangements and general debility; acting under the advice of physicians, they have abandoned all deleterious drugs and fairly tested the merits of this article. A few words to the gentler sex. There are certain periods when their cares are so harassing that many of them sink under the trial. The relation of mother and child is so absorbingly tender, that the mother, especially if she be young, is apt to forget her own health in her extreme anxiety for her infant. Should the period of maternity arrive during the summer season, the wear of body and mind is generally aggravated. Here, then, is a necessity for a stimulant to recuperate the energies of the system, and enable the mother to bear up under her exhausting trials and responsibilities. Nursing mothers generally prefer the Bitters to all other invigorators that receive the endorsement of physicians, because it is agreeable to the taste as well as certain to give a permanent increase of bodily strength.

All those persons, to whom we have particularly referred above, to wit: sufferers from fever and ague, caused by malaria, diarrhœa, dysentery, indigestion, loss of appetite, and all diseases or derangements of the stomach, superannuated invalids, persons of sedentary occupation, and nursing mothers, will consult their own physical welfare by giving to Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters a trial.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.

☞ Prepared and sold by HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburgh, Pa., and sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers generally throughout the United States, South America, and Germany.
